BVI is first to launch financing framework for climate change issues: 2015-2018

The Virgin Islands became the first Caribbean Territory and a leader amongst small island states globally in establishing the policy and financing framework needed to address the causes and impacts of climate change. This milestone was achieved with the passage of the Climate Change Trust Fund Act 2015 in the House of Assembly Tuesday March 24.

Commitments of international climate change financing of US$100 billion per year from 2020 have been pledged by industrialized countries under the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change. Deputy Premier and Minister for Natural Resources and Labor Dr. the Honorable Kendrick Pickering said the Climate Change Trust Fund Act 2015 presents a unique marketing opportunity for the Virgin Islands as an eco-tourism location and a territory that values its environment.

"Do not allow yourself to be overwhelmed by circumstances," she charged, "when I first left high school, I never imagined that someone like me would get to go away and study something so fun, interesting and worthwhile." She added, "I want the future youth of our territory to always put their best foot forward in whatever job or study they may have. Build a reputation of 'responsibility' and 'reliability'." "Make it so that if there is anything people can say about you it is that, you always do the very best you can."
